Just an fyi--the luncheon with Peter Larkin was cordial and David Nicoli joined me. Peter will set-up a follow-up meeting for David with the FMI federal relations staff.

The fmi member working group is now focused on three issues: 1) unified voluntary stop youth access program; 2) state and local legislative activity; and 3) fda comments which will be filed by fmi and individual fmi members.

FMI is very supportive of the unified program, though most of their membership have implemented many elements of the program. he said it is possible his membership may use various elements of the program like the signage and training videos in the future even if they currently have their own programs. he also said that it is important to help others in the retail community who do not have the same level of resources that most of his members have available to deal with youth access issues.

They are still working on the legislative concepts and expect to have a draft by early December that they will share. He reiterated that they are sensitive to various elements in the AAA program summary. I assured him that we would continue to work with their state and local affiliates and he agreed that we had consistently handled the state and local issues by including all interested parties as we said we would do when the program was announced. He alerted me to a recommendation which he thinks the group will support suggesting that manufacturers take the responsibility for applying the electronic article surveillance tag at the point of manufacture. he said that this is being pushed by the chain drug stores as they are trying to get as many of their suppliers as possible to add such a tag at the manufacturing level. he said that most of his members use such a system but do not use such systems in all stores.

As for fda comments--they have been working with C and B on their comments and they will limit their comments to those issues which specifically apply to retailers.

Let me know if I need to probe the EAS issue or if their is a company position or if we know if other companies have a point of view on such technology.
